

Sugar Houses of New England

Compiled by Jeff Folger of Vistaphotography

I blog on many subjects but my passion is for fall foliage in New England. You can find me on the following websites and blogs along with the NEPGuild Facebook fan page.

For my scenic New England photography visit <http://photo.vistaphotography.com>

My fall foliage website visit <http://www.jeff-foliage.com>

My main blog is <http://www.vistaphotos.net>

Also: <http://www.NEPhotographyGuild.com>

And <http://www.NewEnglandSutterbugs.com>

And lastly <http://www.facebook.com/NEPGuild>

I've searched the web for what I hope are current listings of active Sugar Houses. If you run across one that is no longer available or it doesn't want visitors please let me know so I can remove it from this rather long list.

I have put the maple producers association for each state and contact info so you can also contact them to have them removed.

I also make no claims as to photography permissions. Please contact the owners prior to arriving so you know whether they will allow you to photograph them during production.

You might also offer free rights to any good pictures you have taken because like farmers everywhere they could use the help. This is especially true if you make money creating pictures on their property.

If you have any questions my email is jeff.foliage@gmail.com
